Center Of Parleys Moves From New York City To President's Home

DRASTIC ACTION HINTED

Fuel Shortage To Paralyze Industry, Transportation In Short Time

WASHINGTON, May 9—Ready to take drastic action, if necessary, President Roosevelt today personally assumed the role of peace-maker in the deadlocked soft-coal negotiations—a deadlock now proclaimed a national emergency.

With "only a few hours to go" before the coal shortage begins to paralyze the nation's industry and transportation, the scene of the negotiations between John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers union and soft-coal operators, was suddenly switched from New York to the White House during the night after all other government intervention failed.

President Roosevelt, in a meeting with committees representing miners and operators today, was to make definite recommendations to end the deadlock.

It was learned the President may suggest a truce providing for immediate reopening of the mines, while negotiations to reach a final settlement continue. The committees of miners and operators arrived in Washington by train this morning, and were to (Continued on Page Two)

MINIMUM WAGE LAW VIOLATORS TO FACE PRISON

COLUMBUS, May 9—Violators of the state minimum wage law will be prosecuted, Assistant Attorney General Arthur W. Gallo-way declared today after imposition of the first jail sentence on minimum wage law violator.

Mrs. Marie Amorose, manager of several dry cleaning establishments in Columbus, Dayton, Springfield and Mt. Vernon, was sentenced to 10 days in jail and fined $100 and costs by Municipal Judge Fred J. Miller yesterday.

The state charged that during one week in May, 1938, Mrs. Amorose paid an employee only $5 for working 54 hours. The minimum wage for that period under the Ohio law is $19.95.

The defendant immediately asked for a new trial and arguments on the motion were set for Saturday.

KING ZOG and Queen Geraldine of Albania, rulers without a country, are pictured at Lerisa, Greece, in their first photo since they were forced to flee their Adriatic kingdom in the face of Italian invasion. Queen Geraldine only recently was able to leave her bed following an illness that resulted from her flight two days after birth of her child.

LIMBACH SEEKS TO LEARN DAVEY PLANS FOR 1940

NEW PHILADELPHIA, May 9—Democratic State Chairman Arthur L. Limbach intends to find out what is on former Governor Davey's mind regarding the 1940 Ohio delegation to the Democratic national convention when the two meet for a talk in Columbus tomorrow, he said today.

Asked if the meeting was a peace move, Limbach said the arrangements were made for the session at the Akron griddiron dinner and that he would be "happy to see any Democrat."

"I'm also interested in the deficit of the party in Ohio," Limbach added, "and we will likely talk that over."

Davey and the state committee split wide open during Davey's unsuccessful attempt to gain the nomination for a third gubernatorial term and this is the first announced move on the part of either faction to patch up the differences.

Limbach said he was still "for Vic Donahey for president." The state chairman was the instigator of a move recently to hand the votes of the Ohio delegation over to Senator Donahey in 1940.

21 PERSONS DIE AS PLANE FALLS IN CITY STREET

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, May 9—The toll of dead in the sensational crash of a military plane which plunged blazing into a downtown street mounted to 21 today when three of nearly a score burned died from their injuries.

Eighteen were killed outright yesterday as the craft crashed into four houses. Flaming gasoline ignited by an exploding tank set fire to the dwellings.

The pilot and assistant pilot were burned to death, trapped in the machine. The other member of the crew, a mechanic, received only slight burns.

The remainder of the casualties were among inhabitants of the houses and a nearby office building which also caught fire.

Authorities are investigating the cause of the crash.

WARREN, O., MAN LISTED FOR SUPREME PENALTY

COLUMBUS, May 9—Unless granted a last-minute reprieve, Nick Babich, 54, Warren, convicted of the butcher knife slaying of his neighbor, Dan Gross, was scheduled to die in Ohio penitentiary's electric chair tonight. Babich entered death row Jan. 24.

He will be the first person to be electrocuted in the electric chair since its removal from the Protestant chapel to the old death house in the prison yard.

Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean And Daughter Guarded In New York

HOPE DIAMOND BLAMED?

Washington Police Urge Protection As Letter Cites Danger

NEW YORK, May 9—Threats have been made to kidnap the daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, owner of the celebrated Hope diamond, it became known today.

Since Sunday when she and her daughter, Evalyn, arrived in New York from Washington they have been under a 24-hour detective guard at their apartment in the Waldorf-Astoria and wherever they journeyed from the hotel.

The abduction threats were made in letters sent to Mrs. McLean.

Washington authorities asked New York police to post the guard.

Today's disclosure added another chapter to the story of the Hope diamond, legendary symbol of ill-luck. The stone is valued at $300,000.

Mrs. A. Mitchell Palmer whose husband was attorney-general in Woodrow Wilson's administration, came to New York with the McLeans.

BOY RIDING BICYCLE TO SCOUT MEETING KILLED

AKRON, May 9—John Elleff, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Elleff, was dead today of injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile while he rode his bicycle to a Boy Scout meeting. His parents had given him the bicycle on his 13th birthday two weeks ago.

PEDESTRIAN KILLED

LANCASTER, May 9—Run down by an automobile, Charles Thrush, 60, died in Lancaster hospital today of a skull fracture. Police Chief Gail Seiler said the driver, Charles Blum, 56, had been drinking and would be charged with second degree manslaughter.

WIDOW, 15, MAY BE FREED FROM DEATH CHARGES

CINCINNATI, May 9—Because of her youth, the case of Mrs. Blanche Mead Tinker, 15-year-old widow who admitted fatally shooting her husband, Harold Tinker, 20, saying it was done unintentionally, will be handled by the juvenile court, authorities said today.

Distracted from the episode which ended in the fatal shooting Saturday night after she and her husband had been drinking "home brew" beer, the child widow was expected to be placed on probation if her story is substantiated.

She told a probation officer that on returning home Saturday night to Tinker, after an argument, she threatened to kill himself. His wife said she wrestled a small rifle from him and was told by Tinker to shoot him. Believing the safety catch was on, the girl said, she pressed the trigger. Tinker died of an abdomen wound.

'FRISCO SAYS GOTHAM'S FAIR FIGURES ARE FAKE

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9—Attendance figures of the first six days at the New York World's Fair were challenged in San Francisco today.

Golden Gate International Exposition officials claimed "inside information" indicated paid attendance at New York's fair for the six days totaled 615,000 instead of 1,109,000, as officially announced.

An exposition memorandum said the asserted correct figures were compiled by "press representatives and by tabulators employed by the exhibitors and concessionaires at the New York World's Fair."

In almost three months, San Francisco's exposition has attracted 2,693,006 persons.

Statute Nears Passage To Limit Activities Of Women, Girls in Bars

COLUMBUS, May 9—Women's invasion of the bar room and saloon in the capacity of bartenders was on the way toward complete curtailment today under terms of a bill passed by the house.

By a vote of 76 to 39, the lower house passed a bill introduced by Rep. Martin Blum (R-Cuyahoga) which would prohibit women from "drawing or pouring beer, pour whisky from bottles or mix drinks from behind the counter or do work customarily performed by a bartender in public drinking places in which intoxicating liquor is sold."

The bill now goes to the senate. Rep. Donald D. Canfield (R-Wood) charged during debate on the measure that it was "silly and inconsequential" and was introduced by a class of people "for their own benefit."

He pointed out that the bill would not prevent women from serving drinks after they were mixed or poured.

"If my wife or daughter had to work in a saloon," Canfield declared, "I'd rather have them work behind a bar than in front of it, where they are mauled by all the drunks in the place."

Claiming the bill would deprive thousands of women of employment, Rep. Renner (R-Hamilton) offered an amendment which would have permitted bartenders to draw and pour beer but not to pour whisky or mixed drinks. The amendment failed to carry.

Opponents of the measure who said the bill was solely for the benefit of the bartenders' union and brewery interests fought it with the claim that thousands would be forced out of work.

CITY MANAGER BALLOT LOOMS

25 Petitions Circulated By Chamber Of Commerce In Circleville

Petitions are now in circulation in Circleville to take a vote at the primary on whether or not citizens wish a charter form of government.

R. L. Brehmer, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee on the city manager form of government, announced Tuesday that 25 petitions were being circulated by members of the Chamber of Commerce and persons favoring this system of government. He said it was hoped to present the petitions to council Wednesday, May 17.

These petitions will request council to submit the question to voters at the primary. A commission of 15 persons, to be named at the primary, would then submit a charter for the consideration of voters at the election.

CUSTARD POISONS 13

NEW YORK, May 9—Thirteen persons who suffered food poisoning after eating custard pastry purchased in a shop on the lower west side were reported recovering today. City health officials were investigating.

Feeling Grows Against Attorney's Son Named Murderer of Salesmen

PHOENIX, Ariz., May 9—With friends of Ellis Koury and Jack Peterson, the two Phoenix automobile salesmen who were murdered on the desert wastes near this city last week, in an ugly mood, authorities today took precautions to prevent any mob violence when the "accused killer, Robert M. Burgunder, Jr., is returned from Knoxville, Tenn.

Whether young Burgunder, brilliant student at Temple State Teachers college and son of a Seattle attorney, would be returned directly to Phoenix or taken to some secret destination in Arizona by Sheriff Lon Jordan and County Attorney Richard Harless, who went to Knoxville, officers would not say.

When Jordan and Harless left Phoenix Sunday for Knoxville they heard angry imprecations hurled at them by a group of citizens who knew the two salesmen.

Shouts of "Why bother with a trial?" and "You'd better not bring him back here," emanated from the crowd at the airport as the two men left.

Meanwhile, Burgunder's father, Robert M. Burgunder, Sr., former district attorney in King county (Wash.) arrived in Phoenix to aid in the legal defense of his son, despite young Burgunder's advice to him to "stay out of it."

The elder Burgunder, visibly upset, declared: "I cannot say what I will do. I do not know any of the circumstances. But I know my son is in trouble and I am his father."

The father had nothing to say regarding his son's being a parolee from the Washington state reformatory where he had been sent in 1936 for holding up a Seattle drug store.

Calls On Adolf

MSGR. Cesare Orsenigo, Papal Nuncio to Germany, called on Adolf Hitler at his Berchtesgaden retreat to plead for a peaceful solution of the German-Polish dispute and to offer the Vatican's services in any mediation move.

DUCE DECLARES ITALIANS READY FOR ANY CRISIS

ROME, May 9—In a brief but militant address, Premier Mussolini warned the world today that Italian determination will see the nation through any emergency.

Speaking to officers at a parade of Italy's armed forces, Il Duce declared:

"The force of arms is great, but greater still is the decision of our hearts."

"When the hour comes, we will prove it."

Earlier Mussolini gave added force to the newly concluded Italo-German military alliance by laying down a fresh series of measures designed to render the Italian army "entirely ready" for any contingency.

Il Duce pushed through the new laws at a meeting of the supreme defense council which considered in detail the full implications of the Italo-German armed alliance.

POLISH OUSTING MANY GERMANS FROM BORDERS

BERLIN, May 9—Mass expulsions of members of the German minority from Poland threatened today to increase the strained relations between Berlin and Warsaw, already tense because of the deadlocked dispute over Danzig and the Polish Corridor.

The German news agency, DNE, reported from the Polish capital that 400 Germans have been expelled from the Neutomi-schel district of Poland and 300 more from Kattowitz.

It added that a leader of the German minority, Herr Wiesner, lodged a protest against the expulsions with Polish President Ignacy Moscicki.

(An International News Service dispatch from Warsaw said that, according to authorities there, Germany is expelling numerous Poles from border districts of the Reich in retaliation against the Polish expulsions.)

At the same time, the agency resumed its charges of alleged anti-German disorders in Poland.

A dispatch stated that 12 Germans, including two women, were beaten and seriously injured in various border districts.

ARTHUR WALISA CATCHES BIG SHOVELHEAD CATFISH

It took only a few minutes to attract a crowd to the police department. Tuesday, when Arthur Walisa, W. Mound street, put an 11-pound shovelhead catfish on exhibition. The fish was caught in Darby creek. It is the largest reported this season.

'Flirtation' With Russia Berlin Seen As Move To Frighten Foes

VATICAN CITY, May 9—Pope Pius today was authoritatively reported to have received "promises" from a number of Europe's government heads they would make every effort to settle their quarrels through peaceful means.

Pending concrete proposals specifying ways and means of achieving amicable settlement of international difficulties from the political chiefs concerned, Pius pushed forward his mediation efforts through papal nuncios in London, Paris, Berlin, Warsaw and Rome.

BERLIN, May 9—Pope Pius' invitation to join in a five-power conference at Vatican City for pacification of Europe was foremost among the vital matters discussed by Chancellor Hitler and Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop in a lengthy consultation at Munich today, it was learned on high authority.

Responsible quarters said the Pope's proposals can be taken "as a sincere endeavor by an honest broker to find ways and means of assuring peace, contrary to President Roosevelt's thinly-veiled publicity stunt."

This referred to Roosevelt's recent appeal to Hitler and Premier Mussolini to guarantee non-aggression for ten years.

Weighty decisions affecting the immediate fate of Europe are anticipated as a result of the Hitler-Ribbentrop talks. Ribbentrop conveyed to the chancellor a full report on his conversations in Milan with Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

Decision Considered

Whether Hitler will agree to take part in the Pope's proposed peace conference, whose primary scope would be pacific settlement of the Danzig and Polish Corridor issues, is still undecided.

It was pointed out that Italo-German policy hitherto has been to avoid sitting in on conferences where the British and the French endeavor to impose collective theories of security on the exponents of totalitarianism.

(Note—Hitler would undoubtedly take part in the papal conference if Mussolini is also inclined to do so. Rome reports have hinted that Il Duce is favorably disposed, but as yet has not announced his decision.)

Moreover, settlement of his dispute with Warsaw over Danzig is Hitler's most urgent problem. The next move is up to Warsaw, according to Nazi quarters here.

Pressure on Poland was increased in the form of Nazi hints that feelers are being extended to (Continued on Page Two)

Europe's Crisis

By International News Service

A startling move by Pope Pius XII to preserve European peace in the face of the menacing German-Polish dispute held the attention of chancelleries in the old world today.

Latest developments: LONDON—Authoritatively reported Pope Pius urged the governments of Britain, France, Italy, Germany and Poland to hold a conference to end the Berlin-Warsaw tension.

PARIS—Duke of Windsor's peace appeal arouses speculation as to whether he plans a new career as a spokesman for the cause of world peace.

BERLIN—Chancellor Hitler summons Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop to Obersalzberg for conference on European situation. Expulsion of Germans from Poland arouses Reich.

ROME—Premier Mussolini lays down fresh measures to render Italian army "entirely ready" for any contingency.

Former King's Address Wins World Acclaim

By International News Service
Despite the official frowns of the British government, the Duke of Windsor's Verdun peace plea received warm praise in London itself and other world capitals. A thumbnail review of comment:

LONDON—Britons hail the duke's humanitarian appeal. The Daily Mail says objections to the broadcast are unsustained.

PARIS—French sources foresee the former British monarch as a possible active spokesman for world peace, fighting war propaganda as a career.

BERLIN—The official German news agency, DNB, disseminates excerpts of the speech, stresses the duke's attack on fighting phrases like "encirclement" and "aggression."

WASHINGTON—Senators, in "absolute agreement" with the duke's attack on propaganda, voice high praise.

ATLANTA SCHOOL HIRES NEW PRINCIPAL, COACH

Harry Townsend, resident of Jefferson county and an outstanding athlete at Wilmington college where he is completing his school work, was hired Monday evening by the Perry township board of education as principal and coach to succeed Leslie Canup, who has been promoted to the superintendency. Mr. Townsend captained the 1938-39 Wilmington college basketball team.

The board also accepted the resignation of Miss Florence Heitman, of Cincinnati, who has taught in the high school for the last year. Miss Heitman has accepted a position in the Toledo school system at a salary increase.

It was decided by the board not to hire a teacher to replace Mrs. Daniel Pfoutz (Mary Skinner), but to reorganize the first six grades with the three remaining teachers, Phyllis Ater, Helen Skinner and Helen Colville.

Gene Patterson was named as janitor for the next year to succeed George Donahue, who did not apply for reelection.

Decision Considered

Whether Hitler will agree to take part in the Pope's proposed peace conference, whose primary scope would be pacific settlement of the Danzig and Polish Corridor issues, is still undecided.

It was pointed out that Italo-German policy hitherto has been to avoid sitting in on conferences where the British and the French endeavor to impose collective theories of security on the exponents of totalitarianism.

(Note—Hitler would undoubtedly take part in the papal conference if Mussolini is also inclined to do so. Rome reports have hinted that Il Duce is favorably disposed, but as yet has not announced his decision.)

be given the true proposal from the President in his executive offices later in the day.

If that fails, Mr. Roosevelt, will take drastic action, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins disclosed.

Miss Perkins arranged the White House conference after her own personal intervention in the eight-week-old deadlock in New York failed to bring about a settlement last night.

The administration, she revealed, now was fighting against time to effect a settlement. The government had only one objective—to reopen the mines and start coal moving again. It placed that above both the interests of the operators and the interests of the nearly half-million miners who already have lost $40,000,000 in wages because of the dispute.

Perkins Hints Action

While nerves of all those involved neared the breaking point and with accusations being hurled back and forth to place blame for the deadlock, Miss Perkins, declaring a national emergency existed, warned operators and miners that the government has authority "which may lead it to take actions which would be regarded as drastic."

"You can realize," she said "the extent to which the President is himself under personal and deep obligation to the American people to see to it that their need of coal is not cut off."

"We have still, I understand, a few hours to go. We are not at the crisis, but we are pretty near it. We are so near it that no one quite dares measure the degree to which there may be crisis in individual places here and there."

"We are very near the point of crisis, but we still have a few hours in which to show ourselves intelligent people, capable of carrying on the life of this country, the important life of this country."

Miss Perkins, in remarks to the press, blamed the operators for the tieup in the coal fields. Uniquely, the miners, through a letter written by Lewis, head of the C. I. O. and president of the Mine Workers, blamed not the operators but Miss Perkins. Lewis had accused Miss Perkins' Department of Labor of administrative blundering.

PRESIDENT FILES SECOND BILL TO REVISE OFFICES

WASHINGTON, May 9.—President Roosevelt today submitted to congress a sweeping inter-departmental reorganization plan, calling for consolidations in many departments of the government, and the abolition of several major agencies.

In a special message to congress accompanying his reorganization plan No. 2, the President said it is the last to be submitted to the present session. The intra-departmental reorganization plan will be held for a later session.

The President told congress that consolidations of some offices and abolition of others, which he recommended, will save the federal government an estimated $1,250,000 annually. He said the total cost of maintaining these agencies is $25,000,000 annually.

He proposed that a number of temporary New Deal agencies be swept into the discard, while others would be transferred from their present jurisdiction to other departments.

Three of the outstanding proposals were:

1. The National Emergency Council would be abolished and its powers transferred to the executive office of the president.
2. The National Bituminous Coal commission, likewise, would be abolished, and its functions transferred to the interior department.
3. The function of Rural Electrification administration would go to the department of agriculture.

JAPAN "ADMITS" WAR EXISTING WITH CHINESE

SHANGHAI, May 9 — For the first time since the "China incident" began a Japanese spokesman declared today that a "state of war" exists between Nippon and China.

The statement was made by a spokesman at a Shanghai press conference while defending the Japanese aerial bombardments of Chungking, provisional capital of the Chiang Kai-Shek regime in China.

"In bombing Chungking," he declared, "Japan was within her rights as a belligerent."

As a result of his statement, observers in Shanghai were anxious to see whether the foreign office in Tokyo would make any further declaration regarding a "state of war."

Should such a foreign office declaration be made, it was believed, it might force Washington, London and other capitals to recognize the existence of a genuine war in China.

In that event, observers believed the United States government in Washington would be in a position to invoke the provisions of the Neutrality Act in connection with the Sino-Japanese conflict.

Three of the many familiar hit songs in the picture were assigned to the young "King of the Movies" to sing together with Alice Faye in some of the gay moments of the film.

The songs are "The Curse of an Aching Heart," "Rose of Washington Square" by James Hanley and Ballard Macdonald, and "The Vamp." Among other heart songs and hit songs of yesterday heard in "Rose of Washington Square" are "My Man," "Ja-Da," "April Showers," "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows," "Mammy," and "I'm Just Wild About Harry."

Al Jolson, the star who sings back the past everyone want to remember, co-stars in the film.

The Higgins Family, the screen's typical neighborhood family, undergoes another delightful home adventure in Republic's "My Wife's Relatives," which comes Wednesday and Thursday to the Cliftona Theatre.

The Higgins Family consist of, James Gleason as Pa, Lucile Gleason as Ma, Russell Gleason as Sid the eldest son, Mary Hart as Jean the pretty daughter, Tommy Ryan as Junior, Harry Davenport as Grandpa, and Sally Payne as Lizzie the Maid.

In the first Republic Higgins Film, the family was introduced to the screen audiences in a hilarious, "honey" tale titled "The Higgins Family." In the new film, "My Wife's Relatives," the trials and tribulations of Pa Higgins increase. He loses his job because his boss, played by Purnell Pratt, is angry when he discovers that Higgins' daughter is keeping steady company with his son, played by Henry Arthur.

Pa Higgins, on top of his other troubles, finds it necessary to contend with looking for a job, preventing Grandpa from eloping with a rich widow, keeping out of jail for non-payment on an anniversary ring for his wife, curbing his inventive son, Sid, from wrecking the home and straightening out the romance of his daughter. This in addition to the other "normal" troubles encountered by a family head.

PRESIDENT FILES SECOND BILL TO REVISE OFFICES

WASHINGTON, May 9.—President Roosevelt today submitted to congress a sweeping inter-departmental reorganization plan, calling for consolidations in many departments of the government, and the abolition of several major agencies.

In a special message to congress accompanying his reorganization plan No. 2, the President said it is the last to be submitted to the present session. The intra-departmental reorganization plan will be held for a later session.

The President told congress that consolidations of some offices and abolition of others, which he recommended, will save the federal government an estimated $1,250,000 annually. He said the total cost of maintaining these agencies is $25,000,000 annually.

He proposed that a number of temporary New Deal agencies be swept into the discard, while others would be transferred from their present jurisdiction to other departments.

Three of the outstanding proposals were:

1. The National Emergency Council would be abolished and its powers transferred to the executive office of the president.
2. The National Bituminous Coal commission, likewise, would be abolished, and its functions transferred to the interior department.
3. The function of Rural Electrification administration would go to the department of agriculture.

WOMAN CYCLIST HURT

COLUMBUS, May 9.—Injured when the motorcycle on which she was riding with her husband skidded in street car rails, Mrs. Lucille Ullman, 28 Columbus, was in "serious" condition in University hospital today. She suffered a fractured skull and back injuries.

ALDENDERFER DIVORCE

Suit for divorce, charging neglect of duty and cruelty, was filed in Common Pleas court Tuesday by Bernice Aldenderfer against Clinton Aldenderfer, of near Ashville. Mrs. Aldenderfer asks custody of a child and alimony. They were married March 2, 1935, in Circleville, the petition says. One of their children, Gloria, was killed Jan. 8, 1939 in an auto accident on the Walnut creek bridge about six miles north of Circleville.

RAIN LOWERS MERCURY

Rain, Monday night, amounting to .2 of an inch brought a temporary halt in the heat wave that settled over Pickaway county during the weekend. The highest temperature Monday was 85 degrees. After the rain the lowest was 64. More showers were forecast for Tuesday with warm temperature to return Wednesday.

Some Nazi quarters, however, professed not to take this German "flirtation" with Moscow very seriously.

They claimed it is designed chiefly to "frighten" France and England, which are seeking to bring Russia into the anti-aggression front, and more especially to "frighten" Poland in view of the current dispute.

Reliable quarters indicated their belief that the diplomatic "maneuver" will not extend beyond this, at least for the present.

JAPAN "ADMITS" WAR EXISTING WITH CHINESE

SHANGHAI, May 9.—For the first time since the "China incident" began a Japanese spokesman declared today that a "state of war" exists between Nippon and China.

The statement was made by a spokesman at a Shanghai press conference while defending the Japanese aerial bombardments of Chungking, provisional capital of the Chiang Kai-Shek regime in China.

"In bombing Chungking," he declared, "Japan was within her rights as a belligerent."

As a result of his statement, observers in Shanghai were anxious to see whether the foreign office in Tokyo would make any further declaration regarding a "state of war."

Should such a foreign office declaration be made, it was believed, it might force Washington, London and other capitals to recognize the existence of a genuine war in China.

In that event, observers believed the United States government in Washington would be in a position to invoke the provisions of the Neutrality Act in connection with the Sino-Japanese conflict.

DUKE APPEALS FOR SUSPENSION OF PROPAGANDA

Former Ruler Of British Empire Addresses Pleas Throughout World

NEW CAREER LOOMING?

Edward Speaks From Field Where Verdun Battle Was Fought

PARIS, May 9—Possibility that the Duke of Windsor may be seeking a new and active career as a spokesman in the cause of world peace aroused keen speculation in Paris today following his dramatic peace appeal, broadcast to the United States.

Ignoring an official radio boycott in Great Britain, the nation he once ruled as monarch, the duke urged the leaders of the world to stem propaganda as a means of averting war.

Millions of world-wide short-wave listeners, including many in Britain, heard the words the duke directed to a vast unseen audience in the United States, explaining he was breaking a silence of two and a half years only because of the danger of imminent war in Europe.

The radio speech was the first made by the former King Edward VIII since Dec. 11, 1936, when he announced his abdication to marry the American-born "woman I love."

In his speech, which the Duchess of Windsor helped him prepare, the duke declared he spoke "simply as a soldier of the last war" and that he deplored use of such terms as "encirclement" and "aggression" in the war of words between the Rome-Berlin axis and the Anglo-French bloc.

Propaganda Flayed

He called on responsible statesmen to "discourage" such propaganda, which he said "tends to poison the minds of the peoples of the world."

Standing on the site of the battle of Verdun, the duke voiced the "profound conviction that there is no land whose people want war." He appealed to statesmen to sit down at conference tables "to save humanity from the terrible fate which threatens it today."

"You and I," he said, "know that peace is a matter far too vital for our happiness to be treated as a political question. We also know that in modern warfare, victory will lie only with the powers of evil. Anarchy and chaos are the inevitable results with consequent misery for us all."

"On this and other battlefields throughout the world, millions of men have suffered and died. And as I talk to you from this historic place, I am deeply conscious of the great company of the dead and I am convinced that, could they make their voices heard, they would be with me in what I am to say."

"For two and a half years I have deliberately kept outside public affairs and I still propose to do so. I speak for no one but myself, without the previous knowledge of any government."

Simply As Soldier

"I speak simply as a soldier of the last war, whose most earnest prayer is that such cruel and destructive madness shall never again overtake mankind."

"I break my self-imposed silence now only because of the manifestation that we all may be drawing nearer to a repetition of the grim events which happened a quarter of a century ago."

"The grave anxieties of the time in which we live compel me to raise my voice in expression of the universal longing to be delivered from the fears that beset us and to return to normal conditions."

LONDON, May 9 — The peace appeal broadcast from historic Verdun by the Duke of Windsor today aroused intense discussion and interest in Great Britain, where it was heard by scores of thousands of short-wave radio listeners despite the ban on broadcasting the speech over regular British radio channels.

The ban imposed by the British

BEFORE, AFTER ENTERING SCOUT WORK

THIS YOUNGSTER is one who spends his time traveling up and down our alleys, picking up cigarette 'butts', engaging in petty thievery, playing hookey from school, and doing a hundred and one other things that are detrimental to himself and to his community. The boy is not bad at heart, but he has never had a chance to mingle with young fellows his own age who are trying to do some good. And then one day . . .

. . . SOMEONE TALKED HIM into becoming a Boy Scout, and above is the picture of the same boy a few months after he embarked on the national youth work that is meaning so much to the United States today. Now he holds his chin high in the air, he does deeds of value to himself and to his community. What a difference there is between the boy who takes advantage of the training Boy Scout work offers and the same youngster who refuses it.

Broadcasting company's directors was said to have been decided on by order of the British government. Canada, where King George VI and Queen Elizabeth are scheduled to arrive next Monday for their tour of the Dominion and the United States, also barred the address from Canadian stations.

In contrast to the attitude of some British newspapers, which criticized the duke's address as "ill-timed," many Britons applauded the former monarch's words as a humanitarian appeal which may bring about a redoubling of efforts to avert a European war.

British news agencies carried the text of the duke's address in full, and many London newspapers printed it this morning.

Mother Hears Address

It was believed the king and queen, aboard the liner Empress of Australia, did not hear the duke's speech, but the London Daily Mirror reported that Queen Mother Mary listened in and that various other members of the royal family also were understood to have heard the address by short wave.

Expert's Poll Discloses Garner, Dewey Selections

WASHINGTON, May 9—Vice President John N. Garner and Thomas E. Dewey, New York City district attorney, today are the nation's choices for the major 1940 presidential nominations, according to a poll conducted by Emil Hurja, noted Democratic statistical authority.

Hurja conducted the official Democratic polls in 1932 and 1936 that enabled Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley to accurately forecast the outcome of the last two presidential possibilities. He left President Roosevelt out of the picture.

His Democratic returns from the nation, showed: Garner, 45.3 percent of the vote; Secretary of State Hull, 23.5 percent; Farley, 18.2 percent; Senator Bennett Clark, of Missouri, 8 percent, and Philippine Commissioner Paul V. McNutt, of Indiana, 5.3 percent.

On the Republican side, Hurja's return from the nation were: Dewey, 44.8 percent; Senator Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, 21.5 percent; Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, 18.2 percent; Alf M. Landon, 1936 nominee, 13.1 percent, and Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, of New York City, 2.1 percent.

An International News Service poll of the nation, conducted in early April, included President Roosevelt, but likewise showed Garner and Dewey the popular choices now for the 1940 nominations. The International News Service poll showed Garner getting 30.49 percent of the total vote to 30.37 for the President. In that poll, Hull ran third with 9.3 percent and Farley fourth with 4.8 percent.

After a lot of dickering and bulldozing Henry Wallace has started the two principal wheat rivals of the United States, Argentina and Australia, on acreage reduction.

Meantime, the International wheat conference in London has got down to the basic question of export allotments for each country. If Argentina, Australia and Canada accept allotments below their previous exports, then the world will have gone a long way toward acreage reduction.

BEFORE, AFTER ENTERING SCOUT WORK

THIS YOUNGSTER is one who spends his time traveling up and down our alleys, picking up cigarette 'butts', engaging in petty thievery, playing hookey from school, and doing a hundred and one other things that are detrimental to himself and to his community. The boy is not bad at heart, but he has never had a chance to mingle with young fellows his own age who are trying to do some good. And then one day . . .

. . . SOMEONE TALKED HIM into becoming a Boy Scout, and above is the picture of the same boy a few months after he embarked on the national youth work that is meaning so much to the United States today. Now he holds his chin high in the air, he does deeds of value to himself and to his community. What a difference there is between the boy who takes advantage of the training Boy Scout work offers and the same youngster who refuses it.

Broadcasting company's directors was said to have been decided on by order of the British government. Canada, where King George VI and Queen Elizabeth are scheduled to arrive next Monday for their tour of the Dominion and the United States, also barred the address from Canadian stations.

In contrast to the attitude of some British newspapers, which criticized the duke's address as "ill-timed," many Britons applauded the former monarch's words as a humanitarian appeal which may bring about a redoubling of efforts to avert a European war.

British news agencies carried the text of the duke's address in full, and many London newspapers printed it this morning.

Mother Hears Address

It was believed the king and queen, aboard the liner Empress of Australia, did not hear the duke's speech, but the London Daily Mirror reported that Queen Mother Mary listened in and that various other members of the royal family also were understood to have heard the address by short wave.

The origin of the word hookey is French, coming from the hoquet, or shepherd's crook.

Expert's Poll Discloses Garner, Dewey Selections

WASHINGTON, May 9—Vice President John N. Garner and Thomas E. Dewey, New York City district attorney, today are the nation's choices for the major 1940 presidential nominations, according to a poll conducted by Emil Hurja, noted Democratic statistical authority.

Hurja conducted the official Democratic polls in 1932 and 1936 that enabled Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley to accurately forecast the outcome of the last two presidential possibilities. He left President Roosevelt out of the picture.

His Democratic returns from the nation, showed: Garner, 45.3 percent of the vote; Secretary of State Hull, 23.5 percent; Farley, 18.2 percent; Senator Bennett Clark, of Missouri, 8 percent, and Philippine Commissioner Paul V. McNutt, of Indiana, 5.3 percent.

On the Republican side, Hurja's return from the nation were: Dewey, 44.8 percent; Senator Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, 21.5 percent; Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, 18.2 percent; Alf M. Landon, 1936 nominee, 13.1 percent, and Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, of New York City, 2.1 percent.

An International News Service poll of the nation, conducted in early April, included President Roosevelt, but likewise showed Garner and Dewey the popular choices now for the 1940 nominations. The International News Service poll showed Garner getting 30.49 percent of the total vote to 30.37 for the President. In that poll, Hull ran third with 9.3 percent and Farley fourth with 4.8 percent.

Meantime, the international wheat conference in London has got down to the basic question of export allotments for each country. If Argentina, Australia and Canada accept allotments below their previous exports, then the world will have gone a long way toward acreage reduction.

TALKING PEACE

"HAVE discussions between nations become obsolete?" asks Alfred M. Landon. "Is the idea of a world-wide conference not limited to one hemisphere, and not limited to armament or economics, ridiculous and doomed to inevitable failure?"

"I do not think so, because I think the only way to have peace is to talk peace."

Mr. Landon seems right about it. True, the volunteer peacemaker usually gets a swift kick, as Mr. Roosevelt did when he urged peace on Hitler. But it has seemed to many observers since Hitler's satirical response before the Reichstag that he inclines more and more to do about what he was asked to do, at least with Germany's small neighbors.

Talking peace, anyway, is better than talking war or assuming that nothing can be done. It will hardly come now without earnest seeking.

BILLIONS FOR CRIME

THE nation's crime bill is 15 billion dollars a year, five times as much as is spent on the public schools. It would be fine if the figures could be reversed. That would mean that fewer crimes were being committed and fewer prisons were necessary.

As it is now, new prisons become overcrowded almost as fast as they are built. They punish, and they separate the criminal from society for a while. Too rarely, however, do they reform or rehabilitate a criminal, and certainly they do not end the conditions which breed crime.

Any service for which the country is obliged to spend $15,000,000,000 a year should be of great interest to taxpayers who want their money's worth. Until the public itself is well informed on the whole subject of crime, punishment and penal institutions, the system cannot be made efficient and constructive.

CONGRESS OPPOSES TREASURY

WASHINGTON—If the Treasury has any definite proposals for tax revision to aid business, the House Ways and Means Committee, where such legislation must originate, knows nothing about them.

Leaders of the committee have privately informed the White House they see no occasion for meddling with the tax laws this session, and asked it to please advise Secretary Morgenthau and his Under Secretary, John Hanes, to pipe down. Real inside is that a majority of both the House committee and the Senate Finance Committee is secretly cold to opening the tax issue and is annoyed by the Morgenthau-Hanes pious pronouncements.

Most of the legislators are convinced the Treasury has no concrete plans, that when a showdown comes, it will toss the baby into their laps and force Congress to worry about it.

The basis of this belief is simple mathematics. With the deficit still soaring, government income cannot be cut. So if a business tax is pared or eliminated, some other tax will have to be increased.

The two taxes against which the greatest outcry has been raised — chiefly in Wall Street — are those on capital gains and undistributed profits, and their modification automatically would necessitate a hefty boost in the flat corporation tax.

This would mean piling additional burdens on the business men least able to carry them—the little fellows.

The President has twice spoken out against this in the last few months, and a big majority of members of the two committees are against it.

REHEARSAL FOR GEORGE VI

The President of Nicaragua may not realize it, but he has been acting as a "stand-in" for the King of England.

The elaborate reception accorded to General Somoza is a full-dress rehearsal for the reception of King George VI. It has been a long time since a Chief of State has been received in Washington, and the protocol experts are out of practice.

Such movements as the following are too complicated to be left to chance: "As the horse escort, moving west on Constitution Avenue, reaches the junction with New Jersey Avenue the escort will split, each column of fours moving to the curb."

The successful performance of the May pageant for Somoza means a greater chance of success in the June pageant for George and Elizabeth.

Undulant Fever and Its Nature

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A CLERGYMAN in New York State has asked me a number of questions about undulant fever. Undulant fever (or Malta Fever, or Bang's Disease) is a chronic infection of goats and cattle which may be transmitted to man in milk. Its principal characteristic is a very prolonged fever, with the ordinary accompaniments of fever, fatigue and lassitude.

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

It is something like typhoid fever, especially in that its presence can be detected by an examination of the blood. This examination does not depend on the revelation of the germs, but on an immune reaction. The immune reaction is a protective device and is present as long as the patient lives (with some exceptions).

Intelligent Questions

The questions which my clergyman correspondent asks are quite intelligent, and are the result of a somewhat confused state of opinion on the subject at present. He evidently has been talking to a number of doctors in order to get an intelligent opinion in order to guide his flock.

He asks: "Is it the presence of the germs themselves or their toxins, or antibodies in the blood that show that a person has undulant fever?"

The germs of undulant fever cannot be isolated from the blood except by very complicated methods. What happens when the body is affected is that antibodies which cause the germs to clump are produced. So the laboratory clinician takes a drop of blood from a suspected individual and adds the serum to a group of the germs from a culture. If after an hour they are clumped together it is generally considered that the patient has, or has had, undulant fever. Another test is like the tuberculin test on the skin. Both these tests can be demonstrated a long time after the acute stage of the disease has disappeared.

His next question is: "If a person feels fairly well six months after a severe attack but still has a positive blood, is it advisable to take further treatment or merely continue to rest?"

On general principles we would say that, as explained above, a positive test would not mean anything for several years after a severe attack.

But the catch comes in the sentence "feels fairly well."

An investigation of the general subject by Dr. Angle and Dr. Algie was made in the school children of Kansas City, Kansas. They began by wondering whether such large milk consumers as children could have a chronic form of undulant fever, which had never been severe enough to result in an acute prostration.

In about nine per cent they found that the skin test was positive. Impressed by this rather surprising information, they decided to question parents to ascertain the occurrence of chronic complaints in their children.

Such complaints as recurrent headaches, rheumatic symptoms, occasional spells of fever and nervous symptoms were found very frequently in those who had positive skin tests. For instance, there was 34 per cent of rheumatic symptoms in the positives compared to 6 per cent in a group of controls.

The possibility of chronic undulant infection then was indicated so much by the positive tests as by the combination of positive test and symptoms.

The possibility that many children who show what might be called general bad health really may have chronic undulant fever is emphasized by these studies. The possibility gains emphasis when we remember how common the disease is in herds of dairy cattle throughout the United States.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

THAT SPRING Alida Somers rented the house next to the Parrishes and Eleanor found in her the intellectual companionship she had never met in any other woman. Eleanor called it intellectual companionship. Actually, it was no more than her first contact with the point of view of a sophisticated woman of the world.

A fairly successful portrait painter, Alida, at the age of 35, was unmarried. Her conversation, devoid of the trivia regarding matters domestic, was witty, wise and an endless source of information to Eleanor. Trained longer than Eleanor to read the emotions, the motives, the experiences that wrote themselves onto the faces of her subjects, Alida had much to offer Phil Parrish's wife.

The writer in Eleanor drank in the observations of her new friend and found the dimensions of her own perception widening, but when Alida attempted to advise her in a matter that concerned her personally, Eleanor reverted to her own point of view.

Alida advised her to join Phil in Florida.

It was early in April, and Alida had dropped in for a cup of tea late in the afternoon.

"The book is done," Eleanor told her. "I sent it off last night with a prayer. I didn't like to send it without showing it to Phil, but I couldn't wait until he gets back from Florida."

Phil was in Florida with a group of sports columnists, covering the baseball training camps.

"How much longer will he be away?"

"The whole month, I expect. It would be a good month for me to start another story, but I am so much mentally involved over the outcome of this one, I don't believe I could concentrate. I always feel like a lost soul when I finish a story."

"Why don't you run down to Florida for a week or two?"

Eleanor laughed. "Whatever would I do there?"

Alida shrugged her shoulders. "Swim and dance and meet the wives of your husband's friends. You might even forget that you're an author for a few days, and pretend you're like other wives—just a wife."

"Just a wife!" Eleanor poured herself a fresh cup of tea and smiled derisively at her friend. "You ought to know me better than that after all the talks we've had."

"I didn't mean that you had to take a basket of darning and go over your husband's check books," the other girl said calmly. "I merely thought it might be a change for both of you to have a holiday together. You know, Eleanor, that the business of holding a husband is almost as hard as getting one."

Eleanor raised her eyebrows and spoke with an amused tone. "Don't tell me it was ever hard for you to get one, Alida."

"Thanks for the compliment. I might return it by saying something about its being hard to understand how you might lose yours. But, if you can stand a little plain talk, I would venture to say that it is not impossible."

Eleanor regarded her smilingly. "I haven't known you very long," her guest continued, "but I've known enough of you to know that your husband is like a piece of your furniture. He's something you've chosen to live with and you expect it to be there until it is worn out. You're a very attractive woman, my dear, but your husband is a very attractive man and the world is full of attractive women who know that."

"And so you advise me to go down to Florida and look over my property to be sure it is mine?"

"I advise you to buy yourself the swankiest sports clothes and the slinkiest evening things you can afford and go down there to show your husband that you think he is attractive enough to be held on to."

"Why, Alida?"

"Don't 'why, Alida' me, Eleanor. You're a smart girl and you read the newspapers. You, yourself, have shown me the clippings about Phil. And you know that Hortense Lodge is giving him a big rush. You know that his name is always on her guest list at the big parties she throws at that million-dollar villa of hers. You've seen them pictured together at the races and getting out of her plane the day they flew back from Havana together."

Eleanor laughed. Her laughter wasn't quite as light as it had been. She said slowly: "Phil has written me about Mrs. Lodge. She's a sportswoman and they have a lot in common. She has quite a famous racing stable, you know. Also, she's a source of information to him."

"She has red hair and slanting green eyes and she's a man-eater. She has leisure for what she wants to do. And YOU, my dear, have no time except for a typewriter." Eleanor stirred the tea in her cup for several thoughtful moments. "And what would she be doing with a poor newspaper man?" she demanded.

"Be careful, Mrs. Parrish, that you don't get to thinking of your husband as a man no other woman would want. Be careful of your growing attitude that he is a man of little consequence. Women often make that mistake and wake up to find that their husbands are the only consequence that matters—after they've lost them. Also, I shouldn't want him flying around in planes piloted by flighty females. I certainly do not mean to alarm you. I only hoped to stir you up to action. Why don't you go?"

"I can't," the other girl said

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up earlier than usual due to the gradual lengthening of the day. After the long Winter and months of getting up in darkness, it is difficult to discontinue the habit and almost every morning I wake with a start, fearing that I have long overslept since daylight apparently has long been here. Soon belowstairs and to the morning prints, noting the usual first-page murder, war and divorce stories. Strange folk we are to make so much fuss over the killing of a single man, woman or child and who soon, unless signs fail, will be killing them by the hundreds of thousands and feeling glorious and righteous about it all. I'd rather read of battles such as are staged on the fields of sport, so did turn to the sports page and there learned that the Cincinnati Reds are atop the National League. I like that, for the Reds are my favorites. As a matter of fact I never saw but one league ball game and that was two years ago between the Reds and New York. So, when I turn to the sports page in Spring or Summer I note the fortunes of those two aggregations.

Down goes the barometer with strong indications of rain. Welcome, that. Farmers tell me that the fields are in need of moisture, and if they need moisture I am in favor of them receiving it. Wandered out East Main street and inspected Jim Stout's new hoist on his beautiful wreck car. Jim had a hoist that I thought plenty good enough, but it did not suit him, so he bought another one. This hoist does everything except talk. Has a lifting power of ten and one-half tons, and that's a lot of lift. The equipment was no more than placed in Jim's garage until there was a call for it. Jim told the owner of the wrecked car that he had the distinction of being the first to make use of the equipment, but the motorist got little consolation out of the fact. I wouldn't either.

Automobiles, to me, are like good friends. I never sold one that I did not regret the fact, and I never saw a wrecked car that I did not sorrow because there was the sad end of a real dispenser of pleasure. Think of how much our automobiles give us and how little we think of them.

Visited the Coffee Club and there found John Hummel, Charlie Gilmore and Bud Harden gone high hat and sitting in a booth. Always before did sight them on stools at the counter and in that booth they hardly appeared natural. Sighted Guy Pettit on the street for the first time in a dozen days and chatted with Bill Cady who has all details complete for his annual June jaunt into the wilds of Canada.

In the afternoon did tune in on the Duke of Windsor's plea for world peace. I admire that fellow more than any other Englishman and the British government did not hoist itself in my estimation by preventing the broadcast of his speech in England and Canada. Do those folk wish war? All the Duke was talking about was that there is really no need to go to war to settle international differences. He was right. I believe that the Duke really has the welfare of the world public at heart. That is a lot more than I can say for most of the international politicians.

BILLIONS FOR CRIME

THE nation's crime bill is 15 billion dollars a year, five times as much as is spent on the public schools. It would be fine if the figures could be reversed. That would mean that fewer crimes were being committed and fewer prisons were necessary.

As it is now, new prisons become overcrowded almost as fast as they are built. They punish, and they separate the criminal from society for a while. Too rarely, however, do they reform or rehabilitate a criminal, and certainly they do not end the conditions which breed crime.

Any service for which the country is obliged to spend $15,000,000,000 a year should be of great interest to taxpayers who want their money's worth. Until the public itself is well informed on the whole subject of crime, punishment and penal institutions, the system cannot be made efficient and constructive.

SODAS AT THE RITZ

MADAME MARIE RITZ, widow of the founder of the Ritz hotels in Paris, London and New York, is in this country now on a flattering errand. She has returned to America at the age of 72 "to get new ideas for the hotel business." She also wants to gather in a few recipes of popular American dishes. The manager of the Ritz Hotel in Paris particularly wants her to find out how to make a "genuine ice-cream soda."

The ice-cream soda is a delicacy many an American has missed and longed for in his travels abroad. Sometimes he has been able to find something of that name,

CONGRESS OPPOSES TREASURY
WASHINGTON—If the Treasury has any definite proposals for tax revision to aid business, the House Ways and Means Committee, where such legislation must originate, knows nothing about them.

Leaders of the committee have privately informed the White House they see no occasion for meddling with the tax laws this session, and asked it to please advise Secretary Morgenthau and his Under Secretary, John Hanes, to pipe down. Real inside is that a majority of both the House committee and the Senate Finance Committee is secretly cold to opening the tax issue and is annoyed by the Morgenthau-Hanes pious pronouncements.

Most of the legislators are convinced the Treasury has no concrete plans, that when a showdown comes, it will toss the baby into their laps and force Congress to worry about it.

The basis of this belief is simple mathematics. With the deficit still soaring, government income cannot be cut. So if a business tax is pared or eliminated, some other tax will have to be increased.

The two taxes against which the greatest outcry has been raised — chiefly in Wall Street — are those on capital gains and undistributed profits, and their modification automatically would necessitate a hefty boost in the flat corporation tax. This would mean piling additional burdens on the business men least able to carry them—the little fellows.

The President has twice spoken out against this in the last few months, and a big majority of members of the two committees are against it.

REHEARSAL FOR GEORGE VI

The President of Nicaragua may not realize it, but he has been acting as a "stand-in" for the King of England.

The elaborate reception accorded to General Somoza is a full-dress rehearsal for the reception of King George VI. It has been a long time since a Chief of State has been received in Washington, and the protocol experts are out of practice.

Such movements as the following are too complicated to be left to chance: "As the horse escort, moving west on Constitution Avenue, reaches the junction with New Jersey Avenue the escort will split, each column of fours moving to the curb."

The successful performance of the May pageant for Somoza means a greater chance of success in the June pageant for George and Elizabeth.

Undulant Fever and Its Nature

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A CLERGYMAN in New York State has asked me a number of questions about undulant fever.

Undulant fever (or Malta Fever, or Bang's Disease) is a chronic infection of goats and cattle which may be transmitted to man in milk. Its principal characteristic is a very prolonged fever, with the ordinary accompaniments of fever, fatigue and lassitude.

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

It is something like typhoid fever, especially in that its presence can be detected by an examination of the blood. This examination does not depend on the revelation of the germs, but on an immune reaction. The immune reaction is a protective device and is present as long as the patient lives (with some exceptions).

Intelligent Questions

The questions which my clergyman correspondent asks are quite intelligent, and are the result of a somewhat confused state of opinion on the subject at present. He evidently has been talking to a number of doctors in order to get an intelligent opinion in order to guide his flock.

He asks: "Is it the presence of the germs themselves or their toxins, or antibodies in the blood that show that a person has undulant fever?"

The germs of undulant fever cannot be isolated from the blood except by very complicated methods.

What happens when the body is affected is that antibodies which cause the germs to clump are produced. So the laboratory clinician takes a drop of blood from a suspected individual and adds the serum to a group of the germs from a culture. If after an hour they are clumped together it is generally considered that the patient has, or has had, undulant fever. Another test is like the tuberculin test on the skin. Both these tests can be demonstrated a long time after the acute stage of the disease has disappeared.

His next question is: "If a person feels fairly well six months after a severe attack but still has a positive blood, is it advisable to take further treatment or merely continue to rest?"

On general principles we would say that, as explained above, a positive test would not mean anything for several years after a severe attack.

But the catch comes in the sentence "feels fairly well."

An investigation of the general subject by Dr. Angle and Dr. Algier was made in the school children of Kansas City, Kansas. They began by wondering whether such large milk consumers as children could have a chronic form of undulant fever, which had never been severe enough to result in an acute prostration.

In about nine per cent they found that the skin test was positive. Impressed by this rather surprising information, they decided to question parents to ascertain the occurrence of chronic complaints in their children.

Symptoms Found

Such complaints as recurrent headaches, rheumatic symptoms, occasional spells of fever and nervous symptoms were found very frequently in those who had positive skin tests. For instance, there was 34 per cent of rheumatic symptoms in the positives compared to 6 per cent in a group of controls.

The possibility of chronic undulant infection then was indicated not so much by the positive tests as by the combination of positive test and symptoms.

The possibility that many children who show what might be called general bad health really may have chronic undulant fever is emphasized by these studies. The possibility gains emphasis when we remember how common the disease is in herds of dairy cattle throughout the United States.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

THAT SPRING Alida Somers rented the house next to the Parrishes and Eleanor found in her the intellectual companionship she had never met in any other woman. Eleanor called it intellectual companionship. Actually, it was no more than her first contact with the point of view of a sophisticated woman of the world.

A fairly successful portrait painter, Alida, at the age of 35, was unmarried. Her conversation, devoid of the trivia regarding matters domestic, was witty, wise and an endless source of information to Eleanor. Trained longer than Eleanor to read the emotions, the motives, the experiences that wrote themselves onto the faces of her subjects, Alida had much to offer Phil Parrish's wife.

The writer in Eleanor drank in the observations of her new friend and found the dimensions of her own perception widening, but when Alida attempted to advise her in a matter that concerned her personally, Eleanor reverted to her own point of view.

Alida advised her to join Phil in Florida.

It was early in April, and Alida had dropped in for a cup of tea late in the afternoon.

"The book is done," Eleanor told her. "I sent it off last night with a prayer. I didn't like to send it without showing it to Phil, but I couldn't wait until he gets back from Florida."

Phil was in Florida with a group of sports columnists, covering the baseball training camps.

"How much longer will he be away?"

"The whole month, I expect. It would be a good month for me to start another story, but I am so much mentally involved over the outcome of this one, I don't believe I could concentrate. I always feel like a lost soul when I finish a story."

"Why don't you run down to Florida for a week or two?"

Eleanor laughed. "Whatever would I do there?"

Alida shrugged her shoulders. "Swim and dance and meet the wives of your husband's friends. You might even forget that you're an author for a few days, and pretend you're like other wives—just a wife."

"Just a wife!" Eleanor poured herself a fresh cup of tea and smiled derisively at her friend. "You ought to know me better than that after all the talks we've had."

"I didn't mean that you had to take a basket of darning and go over your husband's check books," the other girl said calmly. "I merely thought it might be a change for both of you to have a holiday together. You know, Eleanor, that the business of holding a husband is almost as hard as getting one."

Eleanor raised her eyebrows and spoke with an amused tone. "Don't tell me it was ever hard for you to get one, Alida."

"Thanks for the compliment. I might return it by saying some thing about its being hard to understand how you might lose yours. But, if you can stand a little plain talk, I would venture to say that it is not impossible."

Eleanor regarded her smilingly.

"I haven't known you very long," her guest continued, "but I've known enough of you to know that your husband is like a piece of your furniture. He's something you've chosen to live with and you expect it to be there until it is worn out. You're a very attractive woman, my dear, but your husband is a very attractive man and the world is full of attractive women who know that."

"And so you advise me to go down to Florida and look over my property to be sure it is mine?"

"I advise you to buy yourself the swankiest sports clothes and the slinkiest evening things you can afford and go down there to show your husband that you think he is attractive enough to be held on to."

"Why, Alida?"

"Don't 'why, Alida!' me, Eleanor. You're a smart girl and you read the newspapers. You, yourself, have shown me the clippings about Phil. And you know that Hortense Lodge is giving him a big rush. You know that his name is always on her guest list at the big parties she throws at that million-dollar villa of hers. You've seen them pictured together at the races and getting out of her plane the day they flew back from Havana together."

Eleanor laughed. Her laughter wasn't quite as light as it had been. She said slowly: "Phil has written me about Mrs. Lodge. She's a sportswoman and they have a lot in common. She has quite a famous racing stable, you know. Also, she's a source of information to him."

"She has red hair and slanting green eyes and she's a man-eater. She has leisure for what she wants to do. And YOU, my dear, have no time except for a typewriter."

Eleanor stirred the tea in her cup for several thoughtful moments. "And what would she be doing with a poor newspaper man?" she demanded.

"Be careful, Mrs. Parrish, that you don't get to thinking of your husband as a man no other woman would want. Be careful of your growing attitude that he is a man of little consequence. Women often make that mistake and wake up to find that their husbands are the only consequence that matters—after they've lost them. Also, I shouldn't want him flying around in planes piloted by flighty females. I certainly do not mean to alarm you. I only hoped to stir you up to action. Why don't you go?"

"I can't," the other girl said.

sense of justice will, however, temper these traits somewhat.

shortly. "I wouldn't go unless he asked me to. Also, I couldn't leave now when Jessica has such a bad cold."

Jessica had caught a spring cold and the doctor had ordered her to bed for a few days.

Eleanor knew that she was hiding behind the excuse of Jessica's illness; in truth, she could not bring herself to join Phil without an invitation. Her own determination never to be a wife who would take things as a matter of course had become a concrete thing in her path.

Had she been a superstitious girl, three days later she would have wished she had never spoken of Jessica's illness.

Eleanor came home from the golf course to find her little girl playing in thin pajamas and bare feet in a cold room. That night Jessica awakened her mother with a dry cough and Eleanor went in to find her struggling for breath.

The doctor told her it was pneumonia.

It was the first crisis that Eleanor had ever had to meet alone.

Alida Somers said: "I'll telephone Mr. Parrish, Eleanor, and he'll be here by day after tomorrow."

"Day after tomorrow?" Eleanor asked. "Who knows what will happen by that time?"

They reached Phil after hours of agonized waiting. "I'll be right up," he promised in a tight voice. "I have a friend who will fly me up. If the weather is right, I should be there some time in the next six hours."

Phil did not come. At eight that night a uniformed boy rang the bell beside the Parrish door.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up earlier than usual due to the gradual lengthening of the day. After the long Winter and months of getting up in darkness, it is difficult to discontinue the habit and almost every morning I wake with a start, fearing that I have long overslept since daylight apparently has long been here. Soon belowstairs and to the morning prints, noting the usual first-page murder, war and divorce stories. Strange folk we are to make so much fuss over the killing of a single man, woman or child and who soon, unless signs fail, will be killing them by the hundreds of thousands and feeling glorious and righteous about it all. I'd rather read of battles such as are staged on the fields of sport, so did turn to the sports page and there learned that the Cincinnati Reds are atop the National League. I like that, for the Reds are my favorites. As a matter of fact I never saw but one league ball game and that was two years ago between the Reds and New York. So, when I turn to the sports page in Spring or Summer I note the fortunes of those two aggregations.

Down goes the barometer with strong indications of rain. Welcome, that. Farmers tell me that the fields are in need of moisture, and if they need moisture I am in favor of them receiving it. Wandered out East Main street and inspected Jim Stout's new hoist on his beautiful wreck car. Jim had a hoist that I thought plenty good enough, but it did not suit him, so he bought another one. This hoist does everything except talk. Has a lifting power of ten and one-half tons, and that's a lot of lift. The equipment was no more than placed in Jim's garage until there was a call for it. Jim told the owner of the wrecked car that he had the distinction of being the first to make use of the equipment, but the motorist got little consolation out of the fact. I wouldn't either.

Automobiles, to me, are like good friends. I never sold one that I did not regret the fact, and I never saw a wrecked car that I did not sorrow because there was the sad end of a real dispenser of pleasure. Think of how much our automobiles give us and how little we think of them.

Visited the Coffee Club and there found John Hummel, Charlie Gilmore and Bud Harden gone high hat and sitting in a booth. Always before did sight them on stools at the counter and in that booth they hardly appeared natural. Sighted Guy Pettit on the street for the first time in a dozen days and chatted with Bill Cady who has all details complete for his annual June jaunt into the wilds of Canada.

In the afternoon did tune in on the Duke of Windsor's plea for world peace. I admire that fellow more than any other Englishman and the British government did not hoist itself in my estimation by preventing the broadcast of his speech in England and Canada. Do those folk wish war? All the Duke was talking about was that there is really no need to go to war to settle international differences. He was right. I believe that the Duke really has the welfare of the world public at heart. That is a lot more than I can say for most of the international politicians.

Sunday School Class Enjoys Mother's Party

70 Members And Guests Attend Affair

One of the most anticipated social affairs of Mrs. George Marion's Bible class of the Methodist church is the annual Mother's Day Banquet, and about 70 members and guests enjoyed the well planned 1934 party Monday in the dining room of the church.

A color theme of blue and silver was used in the banquet room, many silver candles lighting the tables and room. Low bouquets of violets and lilacs with silver leaves were along the center of the tables. At each place was a silver potted ageratum, resting on a miniature plate, in which was tucked a tiny folded napkin. On the napkin was written the evening's program.

During the introductions, the mothers and guests were each presented with a pastel colored perfume, a small gadget to perfume clothes and linens. These had been prepared around an attractive Maypole.

Mrs. Marion offered a brief prayer preceding the dinner. While at the table, the following program was presented: Welcome, Miss Eloise Hilyard, class president; response, Mrs. R. R. Bales; informal introductions were made, followed by a "Tribute to Mothers" by Earl Hilyard; the Rev. C. L. Thomas gave an interesting talk on "The Origin of Mother's Day."

The group was then invited to the social rooms where it was entertained with a Mother's Day playlet. Those taking part in the play were Mrs. Virgil M. Cress, Miss Elizabeth Hilyard, Mrs. Byron Eby, Mrs. Herman Hill, Mrs. Dwight Steele, Mrs. Thomas Heffner, Mrs. Ralph Wallace and Miss Helen Yates.

The entertaining and amusing program was arranged by Mrs. Steele, Mrs. Cress and Mrs. Myron T. Johnson. Mrs. Barton Deming directed the playlet.

Others responsible for the pleasant affair were Miss Hilyard, who served as general chairman; Mrs. John Magill and Mrs. George E. Gerhardt, members of the dinner committee. The attractive decorations were arranged by Mrs. Frank Kline, Mrs. Ralph Heistand, Mrs. Dan McClain, Miss Peggy Parks, Mrs. Herman Hill and Miss Ruth Stout were in charge of the unique favors. Mrs. Roscoe Warren and Miss Polly Briggs were in charge of reservations. Members of the reception committee included Mrs. George Marion, Mrs. Herman Hill, Mrs. Ross Hamilton and Miss Hilyard.

The June meeting will be at the home of Mrs. John Magill of Seyfert avenue. She will be assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Ervin Leist, Mrs. Ross Hamilton and Mrs. Frank Reichelderfer.

Phi Beta Psi Picks Corps Of Officers

Miss Margaret Hunsicker was elected president of Phi Beta Psi sorority Monday at the meeting in the home of Miss Dorothy Soule, E. High street. Other new officers are Mrs. Frank Marion, vice president; Miss Wilmina Phebus, corresponding secretary; Miss Veronica Kuhns, treasurer; Mrs. Delos Marcy, editor; Miss Elizabeth Tolbert, conductress; Miss Peggy Parks, parliamentarian. The recording secretary will be appointed by the president.

Miss Pauline Hill, president, was in charge of the meeting at which 13 members were present. Letters were read concerning the National Convention which will be in Asheville, N. C., June 21, 22, and 23. The next meeting of the chapter will be a dinner meeting May 22, at which time there will be initiation of pledges. Members of the sorority will assist in serving the dinner for the Boy Scouts Tuesday at Memorial Hall.

1933 officers of the chapter in addition to Miss Hill were Mrs. Frank Marion, vice president; Mrs. Dudley Carpenter, corresponding secretary; Mrs. William Goodchild, treasurer; Miss Helen Liston, parliamentarian; Miss Wilmina Phebus, conductress; Miss Veronica Kuhns, editor and Mrs. Delos Marcy, recording secretary.

Singing Quill Meeting
Mrs. W. W. Robinson and the Rev. L. C. Sherburne of Circleville attended the Monday meeting of the Singing Quill, the Presbyterian Poetry Society of Ohio. This meeting, which was a luncheon session at the Y.W.C.A., Columbus, marked the fifth anniversary of the founding of the organization, by Dr. Charles L. Zorbaugh, executive secretary of the Presbyterian Synod of Ohio.

Seven charter members of the organization were present as well as a great number of the 130 members now on the roster, who represent every section of the state. Mrs. Helen Purcell Roads of Washington, C. H. wrote an anniversary poem for the occasion.

A feature of the meeting was the distribution of the society's new poetry magazine, named for the group, "The Singing Quill," which is the first poetry magazine in the state devoted exclusively to poets in Ohio.

Mrs. Tessa Sweazy Webb, the editor, and the three associate editors, Dr. Zorbaugh of Cleveland, the Rev. Frank D. Harris of Columbus and Dr. Frank Hartman of Cincinnati were present at the meeting.

The Rev. Dr. Moore of Wooster gave the address for the meeting, using for his subject, "The Language of Poetry."

Daughters of 1812
Mrs. John Boggs, the new president of Major John Boggs chapter, Daughters of 1812, presented an interesting paper, "Lafayette's Return to America," at the May meeting of the organization which was Monday at the home of Miss Clara Littleton, E. Mill street.

Mrs. Boggs was in the chair for the ritualistic opening of the session, Mrs. Helen Black Anderson, chaplain, leading the opening exercises. Mrs. Orion King gave the report of the State and National Councils after the business hour. Plans were discussed for the annual guest day picnic at Logan Elm Park, the time being set for Monday, June 12.

Mrs. Boggs in her paper said: "America will never forget that Lafayette gave his service and wealth to the American cause during the Revolutionary War. He was the loved and trusted friend of George Washington and of the American nation as a whole."

"In 1784, he returned on a visit to America. The mightiest monarch could not have been given a more triumphant reception. From the Canadian Border to South Carolina, in every town and village, great honor was shown him, all telling him of America's eternal gratitude. He spent two weeks of his 120 day visit to this country with George Washington. These quiet, peaceful weeks were in strong contrast to the months of festivities and celebrations that had been showered on him. The two friends never met again."

Sunday School Class
Enjoys Mother's Party

70 Members And Guests Attend Affair

One of the most anticipated social affairs of Mrs. George Marion's Bible class of the Methodist church is the annual Mother's Day Banquet, and about 70 members and guests enjoyed the well planned 1934 party Monday in the dining room of the church.

A color theme of blue and silver was used in the banquet room, many silver candles lighting the tables and room. Low bouquets of violets and lilacs with silver leaves were along the center of the tables. At each place was a silver potted agram, resting on a miniature plate, in which was tucked a tiny folded napkin. On the napkin was written the evening's program.

During the introductions, the mothers and guests were each presented with a pastel colored perfume, a small gadget to perfume clothes and linens. These had been grouped around an attractive Maypole.

Mrs. Marion offered a brief prayer preceding the dinner. While at the table, the following program was presented: Welcome, Miss Eloise Hilyard, class president; response, Mrs. R. R. Bales; informal introductions were made, followed by a "Tribute to Mothers" by Earl Hilyard; the Rev. C. L. Thomas gave an interesting talk on "The Origin of Mother's Day."

The group was then invited to the social rooms where it was entertained with a Mother's Day playlet. Those taking part in the play were Mrs. Virgil M. Cress, Miss Elizabeth Hilyard, Mrs. Byron Eby, Mrs. Herman Hill, Mrs. Dwight Steele, Mrs. Thomas Heffner, Mrs. Ralph Wallace and Miss Helen Yates.

The entertaining and amusing program was arranged by Mrs. Steele, Mrs. Cress and Mrs. Myron T. Johnson. Mrs. Barton Deming directed the playlet.

Others responsible for the pleasant affair were Miss Hilyard, who served as general chairman; Mrs. John Magill and Mrs. George E. Gerhardt, members of the dinner committee. The attractive decorations were arranged by Mrs. Frank Kline, Mrs. Ralph Heistand, Mrs. Dan McClain, Miss Peggy Parks, Mrs. Herman Hill and Miss Ruth Stout were in charge of the unique favors. Mrs. Roscoe Warren and Miss Polly Briggs were in charge of reservations. Members of the reception committee included Mrs. George Marion, Mrs. Herman Hill, Mrs. Ross Hamilton and Miss Hilyard.

The June meeting will be at the home of Mrs. John Magill of Seyfert avenue. She will be assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Ervin Leist, Mrs. Ross Hamilton and Mrs. Frank Reichelderfer.

Washington Grange

A Mother's Day program will be presented at the Friday meeting of Washington grange by members of the juvenile grange under the leadership of Mrs. Loring Leist, juvenile matron. All mothers of the grange are invited to this special meeting.

just been released from a reform school where he was sent for an offense he didn't commit. Grandma is all for giving Clay a chance at a fresh start. But right off the bat, Clay runs into Dudley Brandell, the man responsible for his unjust punishment. Dudley is courting Susan, but she becomes interested in Clay and will have nothing to do with Dudley. Because of his past, Clay feels he has no right to try to win Susan. But he gets a chance to prove his worth for he is to take a payroll over a route threatened by bandits. Dudley is really behind these hold-ups and plans to double-cross Clay but he isn't quite smart to fool spunky Grandma, who puts not only a crimp but a permanent wave into his scheme and clears Clay.

The cast of characters include Grandma Slater, a spunky lady, Ruth Hulse, Clara Pring, her daughter, Bernice Bringer, Susan Pring, Sarah's stepdaughter, Margaret Fischer, J. Hubbard Pring, Sarah's husband, John Ward; Jed Hays, the sheriff, John Thacher; Shack Fowler, his crony, Clarence Kennedy; Dudley Brandell, Mrs. C. G. Chalfin entertained her bridge club Monday in her home in E. Main street, two tables of contract bridge playing during the evening.

Holding high score tallies, Mrs. Mary C. Morris and Mrs. Henry Joseph took the prizes after the games.

Mrs. Earl Price, Edison avenue, will entertain the next session of the club.

Westminster Circle

Members of the Westminster Circle of the Presbyterian church enjoyed an interesting meeting Monday in the vestry room, the discussion being concerned with missionary work in Rhodesia, Africa. History of the work and pictures prepared by a minister of that country were used in the lesson study.

Miss Betty Moeller, president, conducted the business session. Mrs. Robert T. Kelsey, leader of the group, was in charge of the lesson.

Beginning Tuesday, June 6, the meetings will be held the second Tuesday of the month during the Summer. The sessions will open at 2:30 p. m.

Singing Quill Meeting

Mrs. W. W. Robinson and the Rev. L. C. Sherburne of Circleville attended the Monday meeting of the Singing Quill, the Presbyterian Poetry Society of Ohio. This meeting, which was a luncheon session at the Y.W.C.A., Columbus, marked the fifth anniversary of the founding of the organization, by Dr. Charles L. Zorbaugh, executive secretary of the Presbyterian Synod of Ohio.

Seven charter members of the organization were present as well as a great number of the 130 members now on the roster, who represent every section of the state. Mrs. Helen Purcell Roads of Washington C. H. wrote an anniversary poem for the occasion.

A feature of the meeting was the distribution of the society's new poetry magazine, named for the group, "The Singing Quill," which is the first poetry magazine in the state devoted exclusively to poets in Ohio.

Mrs. Tessa Sweazy Webb, the editor, and the three associate editors, Dr. Zorbaugh of Cleveland, the Rev. Frank D. Harris of Columbus and Dr. Frank Hartman of Cincinnati were present at the meeting.

The Rev. Dr. Moore of Wooster gave the address for the meeting, using for his subject, "The Language of Poetry."

Daughters of 1812

Mrs. John Boggs, the new president of Major John Boggs chapter, Daughters of 1812, presented an interesting paper, "Lafayette's Return to America," at the May meeting of the organization which was Monday at the home of Miss Clara Littleton, E. Mill street.

Miss Margaret Hunsicker was elected president of Phi Beta Psi sorority Monday at the meeting in the home of Miss Dorothy Soule, E. High street. Other new officers are Mrs. Frank Marion, vice president; Miss Wilmina Phebus, corresponding secretary; Miss Veronica Kuhns, treasurer; Mrs. Delos Marcy, editor; Miss Elizabeth Tolbert, conductress; Miss Peggy Parks, parliamentarian. The recording secretary will be appointed by the president.

Miss Pauline Hill, president, was in charge of the meeting at which 13 members were present. Letters were read concerning the National Convention which will be in Asheville, N. C., June 21, 22, and 23. The next meeting of the chapter will be a dinner meeting May 22, at which time there will be initiation of pledges. Members of the sorority will assist in serving the dinner for the Boy Scouts Tuesday at Memorial Hall.

1938 officers of the chapter in addition to Miss Hill were Mrs. Frank Marion, vice president; Mrs. Dudley Carpenter, corresponding secretary; Miss Helen Liston, parliamentarian; Miss Wilmina Phebus, conductress; Miss Veronica Kuhns, editor and Mrs. Delos Marcy, recording secretary.

sion, Mrs. Helen Black Anderson, chaplain, leading the opening exercises. Mrs. Orion King gave the report of the State and National Councils after the business hour. Plans were discussed for the annual guest day picnic at Logan Elm Park, the time being set for Monday, June 12.

Mrs. Boggs in her paper said: "America will never forget that Lafayette gave his service and wealth to the American cause during the Revolutionary War. He was the loved and trusted friend of George Washington and of the American nation as a whole."

"In 1784, he returned on a visit to America. The mightiest monarch could not have been given a more triumphant reception. From the Canadian Border to South Carolina, in every town and village, great honor was shown him, all telling him of America's eternal gratitude. He spent two weeks of his 120 day visit to this country with George Washington. These quiet, peaceful weeks were in strong contrast to the months of festivities and celebrations that had been showered on him. The two friends never met again."

"In 1824 he returned for his fourth visit to a grateful nation. The 13 colonies, along the sea, had become 24 states, stretching inland for more than a thousands miles. He was the guest of the U. S. for more than a year. Congress voted Lafayette $200,000, also land in Florida."

"In Boston, June 17, 1825 just 50 years after the opening battle of the Revolution he laid the corner stone of Bunker Hill Monument.

"The following September, Lafayette returned to France in the American frigate, Brandywine. No foreigner has ever been so adored, few heroes have even remained so simple, sincere and unspoiled, so worthy of lasting gratitude."

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

Pepper Martin Bobs Up Again As Thrill Star

By Bill Corum
NEW YORK, May 9.—Having seen a wild running horse run at Churchill Downs on Saturday, we went over to Ebbets field in Brooklyn yesterday to see a "wild horse" run. He did. We refer to John Leonard (Pepper) Martin, the erstwhile wild horse of the Osage and one of our favorite ball players.

The horse from Oklahoma ain't what he used to be maybe. He may be suffering from splints and quarter-cracks, and perhaps he's going to have to be fired and turned out to pasture before many more seasons have rolled around. But he was fast enough and good enough to dunk our delightful Dodgers with a wild and whirling steal of home in what might be called the typical Martin manner. Better ball players have come and gone in the big leagues than John Leonard, but never one who tried more desperately on every hit and every pitch. He's all "must and muscle."

Garry Schumacher tells a story about him that illustrates the point. It was just another ball game between the Giants and the Cardinals at the Polo Grounds. The season was well along and so were the Cards. Well, along about third or fourth place, that is, and not going anywhere except to the end of their schedule. With the score tied and runners on first and second in the home half of the ninth, a Giant hitter drove a single into the outfield that sent the winning run across the plate and officially ended the game.

The Cardinal outfielder, however, made a desperation throw toward the plate, which Martin, playing third, intercepted.

As soon as the New York runner coming toward third saw the run was over and the game with it, he turned and started for the clubhouse. But Pepper, being Pepper, grabbed the ball and chased him half way to the dressing room steps, trying to tag him out. Obviously, it didn't mean a thing and perhaps not a dozen people noticed it. But it was so typical of the horse that I have remembered it a half dozen years.

If Martin hadn't taken yesterday's game at Ebbets field into his own feet, Bob Weiland and Hard Luck Red Evans might still be locked in a scoreless pitching. MacPhail could have switched on the lights for 'em and they could have gone on indefinitely.

Yesterday with Martin on third, one of the two players got around that far during the afternoon. Evans concentrated on the batter—Terry Moore.

While the Brooklyn carrot-top was thus intently engaged, the horse tucked his head down and came tearing for that disc like Johnstown swinging the bend for home. Evan's startled and belated throw was wide and J. L. M. was over in a cloud of dust and glory.

So was the ball game, leaving the National League standings as close knit as a case of lockjaw. There are less than three games between the first place Reds and the last place Pirates. Which means that every one of the eight teams is playing around .500 ball.

HUBBY NURSED GROUCH

HAVANA.—Although they had been separated for six months, Thomas Hornedo Lopez still nursed a grouch. Mrs. Lopez complained to police. While she was downtown, she said, her spouse entered her home, moved all of her furniture away and shut off the electricity.

COSTLY ERROR

VICTORIA, B. C.—Police and bank officials were searching frantically recently for a bank customer because a teller failed to see the third "O" on a bill. By mistake the teller handed the customer a $1,000 bill instead of $100.

DUVALL GIRL RANKS HIGH IN STATE EIGHTH GRADE EXAMINATION

NORMA V. VAUSE RATES 170 RANK IN SCHOLARSHIP

She And New Holland Boy Classified In First One Percent

Norma Virginia Vause, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Vause, of Harrison township, a pupil graduating Tuesday from Duvall school, obtained the highest grade among pupils of county schools and one of the highest grades in the state in the recent eighth year tests. Her grade was 170. The average grade of the high one percent of the pupils in the state taking the test was 165.7.

One other pupil in the county system, Robert Mason Stump, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon C. Stump, of New Holland, received a classification in the high one percent. His grade was 168.

There were 318 pupils in the county schools who took the test. Grades of the high 25 percent, including 81 pupils due to ties in scores, were announced Tuesday by George McDowell, superintendent of county schools. The test papers were graded by the state department of education.

The two pupils ranking in the high one percent in the tests will receive state certificates. Those in the high 25 percent in the county will receive county certificates of award. The state awards will be made at a meeting to be held in Memorial hall in Columbus at 9:45 a. m., May 20. There were 23,739 pupils in the state who took the test.

His Ouster Nears

JUDICIARY committees of both houses of the New York state legislature meet to consider whether State Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer was involved in the smuggling violations for which his wife recently was sentenced to a three months sentence in the women's house of detention.

COUNCIL MEETS WEDNESDAY TO DISCUSS PLANT

Council will meet Wednesday night in a session continued from last week to discuss disposal plant matters.

Carl C. Leist, solicitor, said a resolution was ready for consideration accepting the additional grant of $4,060 made by the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works. This grant was made to complete some of the items of the plant omitted from the project when costs exceeded the original estimates and funds were not available for these items.

The additional grant will be used for construction of a macadam roadway, loam, seeding and sodding and other miscellaneous work. This grant makes a total of $65,423 granted by P.W.A. on the project. The city issued $75,000 worth of bonds as its original share. In addition the Container Corporation paid $15,000 toward the plant construction and council issued an additional $15,000 worth of bonds.

Mr. Leist said arrangements were being worked out for a short meeting with canning plant officials Tuesday night, to discuss a schedule of rates for treating wastes from the canning plants. To date council has established no schedule of rates for industrial wastes. No date has been set for placing the plant in operation.

The senate approved two bills

Ohio Assembly Engages In Important Business

COLUMBUS, May 9—A 1939-40 poor relief program embodying the expenditure by the state of $20,000,000 plus the stipulation that special one mill levies for matching purposes may be passed by a bare majority instead of the previous 65 percent requirement was slated for introduction in the house today.

After a stormy session, during which cries of "stop-gap legislation" were frequently hurled, the joint legislative committee on relief completed its work last night and agreed to send its recommendations to the house.

Major items in the recommendations were the $10,000,000 annual appropriation, to be matched dollar-for-dollar by counties, the bare majority requirements on one mill levies and diversion of automobile license funds for matching purposes. The latter proposal is contained in S. B. 40 which has yet to be approved by the upper house.

Would Pay Notes

The committee recommendations also contained the provision that $786,000 be appropriated for the purpose of paying notes issued by counties for relief in anticipation of 1939 sales tax collections.

Completion of the relief committee's work was far from harmonious, rural members insisting that strong opposition would be encountered in the house and Democratic members sitting idly by and reiterating previous beliefs that $23,000,000 would be necessary for relief for the biennium.

The $10,000,000 annual stipend, as proposed by the committee, was $500,000 above the figure suggested by Governor John W. Bricker in his appropriations message but house and senate leaders previously had said the governor would adhere to committee suggestions.

Somewhat weary after many weeks' of bickering, Rep. L. H. Myers (R-Allen) brought the session to a close with the remark: "Let's put it out. Let it take a test on the floor. The house and senate have been calling for some report. We ought to give them a report."

House Speaker William McCulloch was optimistic that the program, as reported by the committee, would meet House approval. He indicated that a canvass of representatives had led him to report that belief.

Whether McCulloch's optimism would prevail in the face of rural and Democratic optimism as well as active lobbying against certain portions of the program on the part of the Ohio Farm Bureau remained to be seen.

Preceding the relief committee's meeting, the house and senate held quiet sessions, both chambers passing three bills.

The senate approved two bills

J. S. Hunt, Mrs. Julia Weaver, Hazel McClurg, Viola Ward, Julia Taylor, Rosa Oday, Freda McKinley, Mrs. Grace Fraunfelter, Ashville; Mrs. A. H. Oyer, Ellen Oyer, Edward and Rachel Oyer and Mr. and Mrs. Harter, Columbus.

first six named are yet living. They are Clayton Weaver, D. H. Ebert, E. E. Fraunfelter, W. E. Payne, Ludwig Oesterle, Charles Gerhardt, C. R. Ashbrook, Jonathan Brinker, George Black, Jacob Beaver, J. C. Beavers, David Glick, Edward Gerhardt, J. E. Hoffines, J. W. Messick, Charles Ward, G. W. Newton, R. A. Postle, Norman Peters, C. O. Solt, Edson Smith, M. L. Smith, John Smith, George Schuckers, John H. Thomas. The first installation meeting was held on the evening of October 22, 1891, when thirty-four were given the first degree work. ## His Ouster Nears

JUDICIARY committees of both houses of the New York state legislature meet to consider whether State Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer was involved in the smuggling violations for which his wife recently was sentenced to a three months sentence in the women's house of detention.

COUNCIL MEETS WEDNESDAY TO DISCUSS PLANT

Council will meet Wednesday night in a session continued from last week to discuss disposal plant matters.

Carl C. Leist, solicitor, said a resolution was ready for consideration accepting the additional grant of $4,060 made by the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works. This grant was made to complete some of the items of the plant omitted from the project when costs exceeded the original estimates and funds were not available for these items.

The additional grant will be used for construction of a macadam roadway, loam, seeding and sodding and other miscellaneous work. This grant makes a total of $65,423 granted by P.W.A. on the project. The city issued $75,000 worth of bonds as its original share. In addition the Container Corporation paid $15,000 toward the plant construction and council issued an additional $15,000 worth of bonds.

Mr. Leist said arrangements were being worked out for a short meeting with canning plant officials Tuesday night, to discuss a schedule of rates for treating wastes from the canning plants. To date council has established no schedule of rates for industrial wastes. No date has been set for placing the plant in operation.

Whether McCulloch's optimism would prevail in the face of rural and Democratic optimism as well as active lobbying against certain portions of the program on the part of the Ohio Farm Bureau remained to be seen.

Preceding the relief committee's meeting, the house and senate held quiet sessions, both chambers passing three bills.

Ohio Assembly Engages In Important Business

COLUMBUS, May 9—A 1939-40 poor relief program embodying the expenditure by the state of $20,000,000 plus the stipulation that special one mill levies for matching purposes may be passed by a bare majority instead of the previous 65 percent requirement was slated for introduction in the house today.

After a stormy session, during which cries of "stop-gap legislation" were frequently hurled, the joint legislative committee on relief completed its work last night and agreed to send its recommendations to the house.

Major items in the recommendations were the $10,000,000 annual appropriation, to be matched dollar-for-dollar by counties, the bare majority requirements on one mill levies and diversion of automobile license funds for matching purposes. The latter proposal is contained in S. B. 40 which has yet to be approved by the upper house.

Would Pay Notes

The committee recommendations also contained the provision that $786,000 be appropriated for the purpose of paying notes issued by counties for relief in anticipation of 1939 sales tax collections.
